Recycling Electronics

Recycling these wastes reduces dangerous chemicals in landfills and our environment. E-Cycle Washington is a free program that makes it easy for Washington residents to recycle their broken, obsolete, or worn-out electronics. To learn more about where to recycle electronics: call 1-800-Recycle or visit Electronic waste - Washington State Department of Ecology

Participating businesses accept computers, laptops, monitors, e-readers, portable DVD players, and TVs from residents and businesses under 50 employees free of charge. Some places take additional items, but a fee may apply. Be sure to check with each location individually to learn specific details about materials accepted, fees, hours, etc.
